

Special Night at the Museum

Arizona History Museum

949 E. 2nd Street, Tucson, AZ 85719

*Meet characters from Arizona's past as you walk through the exhibits.
Enjoy light refreshments with the re-enactors after the tour.*

When: Friday, October 25, 2013

Time: 7:00 p.m. – 8:30 p.m.

Cost: $15.00

6:00 p.m. Registration
*7:00 p.m. Tours
8:30 p.m. Light Refreshments

*Free parking in the garage at the northeast corner of E. 2nd Street & N. Euclid
Use 2nd Street entrance*

*Note: Please RSVP by October 22, 2013

Questions? Please contact Betty Cook at
(520) 886-3363 -or- cbetty@cox.net

Sponsored by AHS Docent Council
Proceeds benefit the
Arizona Historical Society
Education Programs

REGISTRATION FORM – Please detach and mail with check to: Betty Cook, 8258 E. Kenyon Dr., Tucson AZ 85710
Make checks payable to: AHS Docent Council

Name: _____ Phone: _____
Address: _____ City/State/Zip: _____
Email: _____ Total number attending: _____ X $15 = _____

Reenactments for Special Night at the Museum – October 25, 2013

Charles D. Poston, 1825-1882: Born in Kentucky, Poston was regarded as “The Father of Arizona Territory”. His was an interesting life story, “From Rags to Riches – then Back to Rags”. Hear this interesting story about the founder of the Arizona Historical Society.

John N. Goodwin, 1824-1857: Goodwin, born in Maine, was a member of the House of Representatives in ME. In 1862, after he lost his bid for re-election, President Lincoln appointed him Chief Justice of AZ., and also John Gurley as the first AZ Territorial Governor. Gurley died before taking office and Goodwin was appointed to fill that position.

R.N. Leatherwood, 1844-1920: Born in N.C., Leatherwood was a scout for the Confederate Army during the Civil War. He owned a stable in Tucson near the original site of Ft. Lowell. He was instrumental in many of the territorial affairs of Tucson, and died while dining at Rossi's Restaurant.

Louise Foucar Marshall, 1864-1956: Born in Massachusetts, she became the first woman professor in AZ., and was a very successful entrepreneur in her time. However, her marriage to a younger man, one of her students, although happy at first, turned tragic, when she shot him. He survived, but died a month later, leading to her being charged with his murder. This whole event scandalized Tucson, but eventually she was found not guilty!

Sylvester Mowry, 1822-1871: Mowry, born in Rhode Island, attended West Point, then went west with the Army for the railroad. Elected as delegate to the 35th Congress for the creation of the AZ Territory, he served at Ft. Buchanan, lived at Tubac, and was involved in mining operations. He fought in a duel in Tubac over information a local paper had printed about his mining operations.

Isabella Greenway, 1886-1953: A good friend of Eleanor and Franklin D. Roosevelt, first U.S. Congresswoman from AZ., and builder of Tucson's Arizona Inn, Isabella was a celebrity in her time, known for both her beauty and intelligence. Three times married, with three children, she was also a rancher and owner of a Tucson furniture factory that employed disabled vets after WWI.

Vincente Hernandez, about 1839-1873: He and his wife moved from Albuquerque to set up a store and pawn shop in Tucson. They were a charming couple who made many friends once in Tucson. However, they were shockingly robbed and brutally murdered. Come hear this tale and how the murderers were lynched by an angry mob.

Jesusita Suarez Carrillo, about 1847-1880: Wife of Leopoldo Carrillo, she was born in Mexico. This couple's primary interest was the Carrillo Gardens, a beautiful resort in Tucson. She handled most of their financial affairs, which was unusual for that time. He was taken prisoner while in Sonora. Hear how she successfully negotiated his ransom.